

COALITION FOR IMPACT

Programme Launch 11th October

Thanks to all who took time to attend and engage in our kick off event on 11th October at Birmingham Energy Innovation Centre. Special thanks to Chris Gell, the Centres' Technical Manager who hosted us providing tea and coffee and a great venue. Also, to Webster and Horsfall and the inspiring presentation from Tommy Allsop, Sustainability Manger. We have nearly completed the flipchart write ups and will send these on to all next week. Critically, the mapping session output has been sent to Nicola Bacon who will with her colleagues be facilitating the mapping workshop on 5th November (see event calendar below). Hopefully, all will have got greater clarity on the programme aims, scope and deliverables together with an understanding of the programme support we will provide from Loconomy.

Grant Agreements (COGAS)

I know many of you have raised the issue of grant agreements with us. Sharmarke Ali (sharmarke.ali@birmingham.gov.uk) is leading on this.

Deliverables

The specific outputs to be delivered will be set out in the COGA and these will reflect what was set out in the call document (advice note that accompanied the application form) that you responded too.

These include:

“Each organisation will work on their local economic capacity and produce a Community Economic Development Plan noting these are not formal planning documents and instead a tool for designing and mobilising around a common economic vision for the area.”

As was set out in the presentation at the programme launch, the expectation is for each community organisation to collaborate with your two peers, engage with wider partners engaged in the growth quarter as well as in your local communities and networks to produce a detailed set of community economic maps reflecting the community economic geography of the quarter. These will be used to inform the development of investable projects in the quarter as well as a vision for the area. Loconomy associates will draft with your input an overarching report for each area to submit to the funding agency on this work. This will consider how you have been able to include local residents in the mapping and analysis of economic opportunities and deepen the understanding of the importance of local economy and its dependence on social and green capital and improving understanding of the East Birmingham Programme opportunities and those developed within the three investment/growth zone and new employment opportunities.

Finally, the guidance note stipulates that you will hold at least two events with at least 60 residents engaged. We have built these two events into the main programme between the learning workshops, and these are for you to design and will be supported by your designated Loconomy coach. You can count additional meetings as you require. We recommend the use of attendance sheets to record attendance, taking of photographs (with permission) and use of the programme logos which we will provide. The guidance stipulates the attendance at six Loconomy collaborative learning events. We have designed a programme including the launch event, three workshops, the session with Jo White our CEDP lead and the end of programme Convention.

Social research

As part of our brief, we are undertaking social research on the importance of capacity building for community organisations engaged in local economic growth projects and programmes. You will have met Ian Dudfield (ian.dudfield@loconomy.org.uk) at the launch, and he will reach out to you. Your input will be much appreciated.

Electronic Learning Platform

We will load all presentations, mapping, reports, bulletins on to an electronic learning platform. Mashkura (mashkura.begum@loconomy.org.uk) will provide a brief update on this at the next workshop.

Collaboration between the theme and quarter work programmes

All our collaborative learning events are open to the named members from the theme and area/quarter workstreams.

Look and Learn visits

Loconomy lead associates will engage in each quarter to scope a potential learning visit that will add value to your workstream. We expect that these will be low key and accessed via public transport or car with the lead members involved. Loconomy will fund these costs.

Business Support

You can contact Charlotte.Bowden@birmingham.gov.uk and ask for a slot with her to have a Growth Hub's business diagnostic for free as part of this programme.

We will also update on the opportunity for wider business support on the following topics at the next workshop.

- Taking on an asset – ownership, lease, CAT, & ACV
- Governance models
- Funding and business models
- Income generation from assets
- Trading arms
- 1:2:1 surgery session for organisations seeking specific advice on assets
